MOVING FOR BETTER BALANCE

Moving for Better Balance is a fall-prevention program that helps older adults improve their balance, coordination, and functional abilities. The class curriculum has been acknowledged as an evidence-based, successful program by the Center for Disease Control and the National Center for Injury Prevention and Control. The program is based on the principles and movements of Yang-style Tai Chi and is taught by certified instructors. In addition, Moving for Better Balance has also been found to support and be beneficial for other populations such as cancer survivors, Parkinson patients, stroke patients and joint replacements.
